CAMPBELL'S CAMPAIGN to add the name Campbell to the overhead road sign at the intersection of Bayshore and Highway 17 has reached another road block. Only Los Gatos and Santa Cruz now appear on the sign.

In a letter to Supervisor Ralph Mehrkens, a state highway engineer explained that the policy of the department was to adequately serve the motoring public and it was necessary to limit the names to two at decision points such as a turnoff from a freeway.

According to the engineer, these signs must be located and proportioned so that motorists may "recognize the message", comprehend the meaning, make their decisions and direct their vehicles into the proper lane without a reduction in speed."

That sounds like a pretty big order, even for the most proficient motorist.

Although we have not done too much research on how much information one can assimilate from the signs, we have long been an avid road-sign-reader.

And we have not confined this avocation to mere directional signs.

But since the advent of the packed freeways, with planned and planted landscaping, most of our road-sign-reading of necessity has been confined to those that inform us when to get over in the right lane so to have a fighting chance to leave the thoroughfare with all fenders intact.

So really we don't know whether or not we could absorb three names such as Campbell, Los Gatos and Santa Cruz in one reading.

The problem, of course, is that you don't get a second chance to read what you missed. Unless you are cultivating "whip-lashes" on a gigantic scale.

We plan to do some more research on this. But on the fly only, we assure you.

-o-

LOCATION OF KEY POINTS and not the population of them, the engineer explained, gets the priority on these directional sign-jobs.

Santa Cruz is the terminal city and Los Gatos is the junction of two major roads. So they scored higher in that respect than Campbell which the motorist comes to first while rolling down Highway 17.

Admittedly there is some logic to this reasoning.

But it is still frustrating to have to inform an out-of-town visitor that he must turn off the freeway at the sign that reads Santa Cruz and Los Gatos in order to get to Campbell.

AT THE COUNCIL

Fireworks permit issue almost causes explosion

Fireworks threatened to go off with a big bang prematurely at the City Council meeting Monday night when the councilmen faced their annual dilemma over the issuance of special permits for the sale of the traditional Fourth-of-July noisemakers.

But no big explosion took place. In the end, after some fiery discussion, 11 of the 13 applicants received fireworks permits. But the councilmen promised to establish a definite policy on the sale of fireworks before the time for next year's Independence Day rolls around.

There were even rumblings that the sale of fireworks might be banned altogether within the city limits by next year. At least, however, it was indicated that some sort of equitable system might be developed in the issuance of permits.

What almost caused the eruption of fireworks at the council meeting was the charge that charitable organizations had been favored in the issuance of permits over the local merchant.

Councilman Ed Rogers conceded that the council in the past had favored charitable groups and he felt this proper. However, Frank Goodner, of Sunshine Card & Toy Store, took exception to this. He maintained that the merchant who pays taxes all year 'round should have an equal chance to make a few extra bucks. Councilman Bill Smeed agreed with this thinking. He pointed out that the resolution adopted by the council in April, 1961, allowed merchants as well as organizations to receive permits.

The question of license fees also almost provoked an explosion. A fee of $100

College leases Rose property for parking

To provide off-street parking for West Valley Junior College when it opens in Campbell this fall, trustees have authorized Pres. Wallace W. Hall to lease two and a half acres at Winchester Blvd. and Latimer Ave. from Charles A. Rose at $8,000 per year.

The property, which will accommodate 350 cars and meet part of the College's parking needs, will be leased for three years, subject to renewal annually for two more years.

Improvements amounting to $15,553 for paving, lighting, and drainage will be made by Rose, the cost to be paid by the College upon completion of the parking facility. The property is adjacent to WVJC's temporary campus, in Campbell.

The lease, drawn up by the county legal counsel, will expire July 1, 1967, if renewal options are not exercised. The College can make other use of the site if it wishes, such as installation of portable classrooms.

Negotiations are underway for the lease of other property nearby to provide total off-street parking for approximately 1,700 cars.

It's dollars (not bones) for Bowser as kids tap piggy banks for stray

A badly injured, stray dog that wandered onto the playground at Dover School on the last day of school is alive and receiving expert medical care today because of the unselfish devotion of a group of sixth grade boys.

And the boys are going to be a little short of spending money this summer as a result.

The boys, whose care-free thoughts only moments before centered only on the vacation that was to start the next day, were touched by the weakened condition of the friendly canine that nudged up to them.

They recognized that immediate medical care was necessary. But this would cost money.

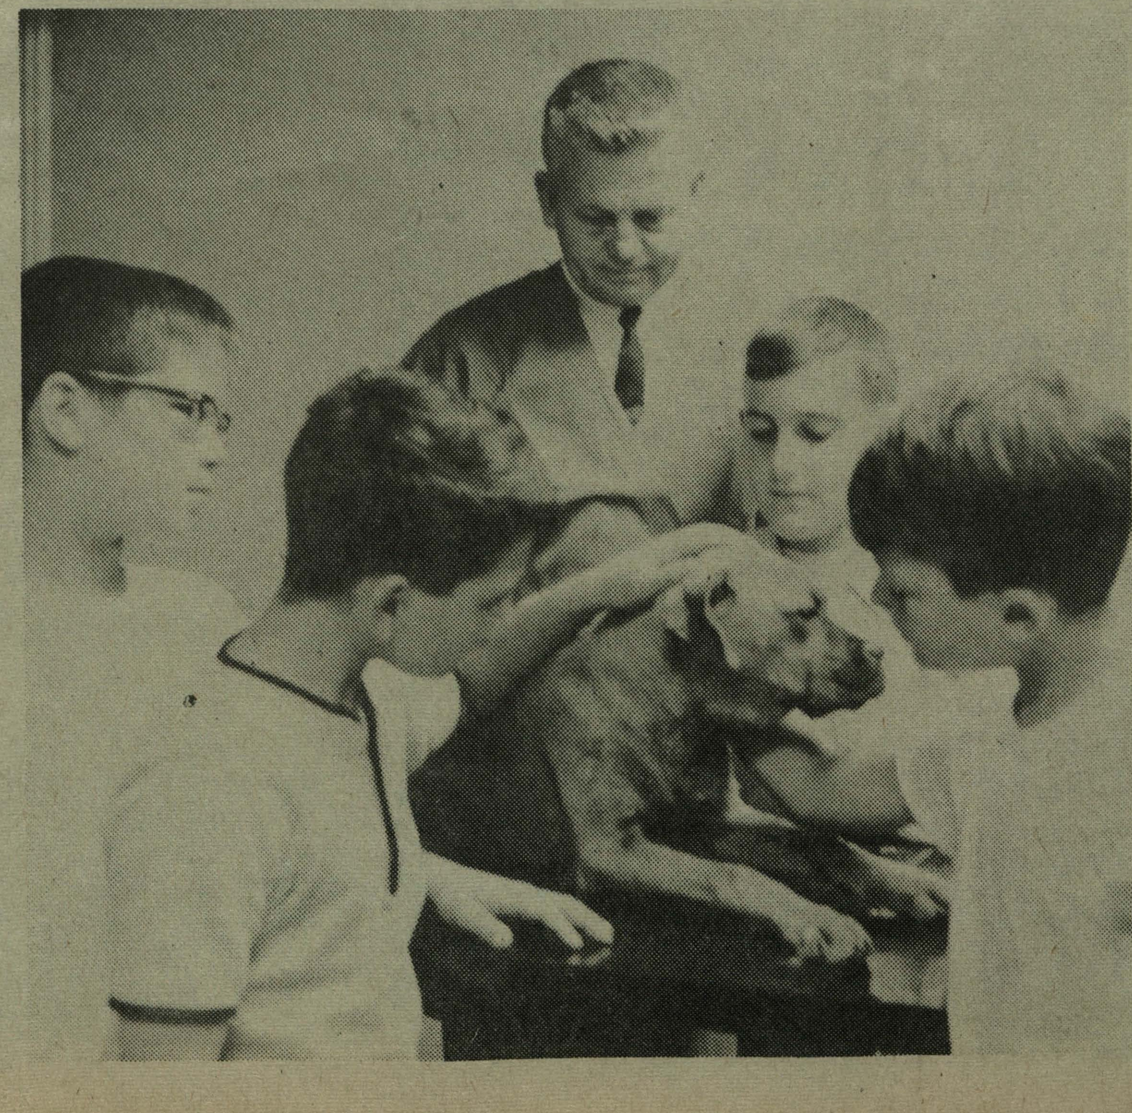
So on their own they staged a fund-raising campaign which netted $19 from among their classmates...

And they didn't seem concerned that their piggy banks and allowances took an awful beating.

William Gilbert, their teacher, and Ernie Rideout, Dover principal, heard about it, of course. They were impressed by the youngsters' actions.

Gilbert loaded the pup into his car and took him (along with the $19) to Dr. Patrick Baymiller at the Central Animal Hospital, 917 Hamilton.

An operation will be necessary as the gash is deep and festered. But the dog will recover. Coincidentally, but unmathematically, Dr. Baymiller "estimated" that the operation and hospital care would not exceed the money the kids raised.



FRIDAY NIGHT AT CITY HALL

Railway-Dillon-Gilman owners meet on zoning

For the first time some idea of what the property owners themselves in the Railway-Dillon-Gilman area desire in the way of zoning and future development for their section of town will be gained Friday night at an "exclusive" meeting at the city hall.

The meeting called for 8 p.m. is solely for the property owners in the area who will be given an opportunity to "sound off" as to what they think should be done.

City officials have made the city hall available. They have volunteered to furnish several maps of the area. But the emphasis has been placed on making the meeting exclusively for the property owners. City officials politely have been asked to stay home by instigators of the meeting.

The Railway-Dillon-Gilman area, rated as one of the worst substandard sections in the city, has long been in the public eye, in a negative way. It has been zoned M-1-S (light industrial) since early in 1950 with the hope that this zoning would tend to upgrade the area. But the "upgrading" did not come about as rapidly as was hoped.

Attention was focused on the three-block parcel in recent months when the city embarked on an accelerated condemnation program. This resulted in the demolition of 12 sub-standard houses with 10 others on the list.

After some of the places were demolished, discussion started as to the possible rezoning of the area. Some property owners complained that this was unfair. They had been ordered to remove their buildings before a decision had been made as to what zoning would be given the area.

They maintained this should have been decided before the condemnation order was given. They add also that this policy "frightened off" any prospective buyers.

At a recent council meeting, a zoning and building permit "freeze" was placed on the area to last until August 1, 1964 in order to give the planning commission and staff

Rover of Dover finds friends when needed

Rover of Dover has found friends. That's for sure.

A friendly stray dog, with a gaping wound on his neck, is receiving medical care at the Central Animal Hospital because he was befriended by a group of sixth grade boys at Dover School.

On their own the boys raised $19 to help defray the dog's hospital expenses.

Above the pup is reassured that he is among friends.

The boys are not just sure what will happen to their new-found friend when he is ready to leave the hospital. Or have they any regrets over their "investment."

Right now they are concerned over his immediate welfare.

Storm drain job to cost $12,000 below estimate

Campbell Ave. storm drains will be installed for $12,000 less than was estimated, the City Council was pleased to learn Monday night when the contract for the project was awarded to the low bidder.

Pisano Brothers with a low bid of $49,427 was given the contract by the council. The engineer's estimate was $61,414. Four other bids were received from $52,802.50, the next low to a high of $60,326.05.

Myron Hawk, director of public works, told the council that the job should be completed by early fall. He conceded that Campbell Ave. will be torn up during the work but traffic will be able to move on it. He said also that they wanted the storm drain job to be done before the street was widened and improved and before the San Tomas Expressway comes through.

Editorial

Figures are revealing

During the most recent study sessions held on the problem of what to do about Campbell Avenue's future, a tabluation of the present use of the square footage in the 10-block area was presented.

The tabluation revealed that there has been a distinct trend in the area now zoned C-3-S (from Winchester to the railroad tracks) toward the development of commercial services and offices in that section of the downtown business community.

It was explained that, if this trend from strictly retail establishments was to be reversed, off-street parking must be provided... and fast.

The obvious question that came up, of course, was whether it was to the best interests of all concerned to reverse the trend. Maybe the area should be allowed to develop into a service and office center.

There was no ready answer to this question. It was, however, pointed out that more off-street parking would be necessary no matter what develops in the area. The location of the parking spaces, however, might vary.

If Campbell Avenue is ever widened, off-street parking becomes even more important.

But to get back to the tabulation as to how the 10-block area is being used at the present time.

It was noted, for example, that the total square footage involved was 168,690 of which only 55,880 is now devoted to retail sales. Commercial services and offices totalled almost twice as much or 102,810 square feet.

In the area 10,000 square feet was listed for public or quasi-public buildings (county library and the IOOF Hall) and 11,930 square feet for vacant buildings.

In the 10-block section there are 14 single-family dwellings.

The assessed land valuation for the downtown sections was estimated at $267,780 and improvements at $394,650.

Each block was broken down specifically. Three of the blocks showed no retail sales establishments at all and only in two of the 10 blocks did the retail outlets have more square footage than the services of offices.

We think the figures are extremely revealing and should be intently studied.

There is a distinct possibility that they could possibly indicate the best pathway to follow in the overall improvement or revitalization program for the downtown area.

Bonds are necessary

Both the Campbell Union (elementary) School District and the Campbell Union High School District will hold bond issue elections on September 15.

The elementary district is calling for a $5 million bond vote and authorization for $3 million for state aid. The high school district is asking for a $10 million bond issue.

While no one is eager to vote bonds, the point remains that this is the only fair way yet devised in which school districts (or any other governmental subdivision) can keep pace with the expansion needs.

Bond issues spread the costs over the years in which the buildings are to be used. This approach makes sense, for it would be grossly unfair and actually impossible for citizens to operate under a pay-as-you-go plan in school financing.

There seems to be no other way in which the two school districts can operate. Bond issues have become a way of life and a necessary one.

We hope that both the elementary and high school bond issues receive a favorable vote of the electorate on September 15.

several weeks because of a broken arm.

With his arm in a sling he has been assisting where he can in office chores at the police station.

Having an injured police officer on duty sort of adds glamor to any police department in a sort of imaginitive way.

Strangers coming into the office can envision the heroic officer being injured in line of duty... maybe getting wounded in a running gun battle with a notorious criminal.

But in Don's case his injury occurred in a more prosaic manner. But by stretching a point, one could say that there was a sort of theft involved, i.e., base-stealing. And there was a chase, too.

You see, Don tripped over third base while chasing his young son in a rundown while working out with a Little League team. He broke his arm as a result of his fall.

But maybe all this could be considered in line of duty.

After all, Don is a juvenile officer.

ON SCHOOL BILL

Small wonder the California Taxpayers Association supports the Unruh School bill. It increases state support for the city unified districts which cover the rich downtown commercial and industrial areas and forces higher property taxes on homes of people who live in the residential areas.

They don't pay attention to these things, so what differences does it make? The school people went to Sacramento for more money because state school support is at the lowest ratio in 15 years. They get a pittance, $10 per a.d.a., and required class sizes which increase their cost, so they broke even there. Then under the guise of abolishing small districts, Unruh slipped in the provision for next year which gives only unified districts (grades kindergarten through 12) an extra $15 per a.d.a. In Santa Clara County, for example, this benefits only San Jose and Palo Alto.

The abolition of all high school and elementary districts is required to get this extra money. Most of the impact is on large, urban residential districts such as Jefferson elementary (20,000 a.d.a.) or Lick High School District--districts which operate four or five huge high schools now and build another each year. These big districts are residential primarily and must merge with other big residential districts to get the extra money.

They won't fire any administrators. They must hire more along the pattern of Los Angeles City Unified and at bigger salaries, but the people won't have so many unpaid school board members representing them. In the meantime, they get a county-wide special school tax in reverse, imposed on the residential areas outside the core cities only.

Yes, the big property taxpayers really got a break. Governor Brown squeaked through again without giving up any real school support from his state treasury, and again he talked the CTA out of any fight for real relief.

GRATEFUL

Dear Editor:

On a recent occasion the Light Opera Workshop of Campbell Union High School, under the direction of Mr. Larry McCommas, performed on behalf of the Arts Festival Committee here in San Jose.

The purpose was for creating a greater awareness of the need for a theatre in the San Jose area. In so doing, this group performed extremely capably and received much praise for their near professional presentation of outstanding music numbers.

The Arts Festival Committee is very grateful for this cooperation from such groups and we thought the people of Campbell should know and be proud of their young people.

Sincerely,
SAL MILLAN, Arts Festival Committee

ADULTS??

The following is addressed to the majority of the adults who attended the recent Campbell High graduation ceremony:

You people looked like the adult as he is defined by our American society, so why didn't you have the manners of an adult? The majority of you acted as if you were in a football stadium. Was it really necessary for you to leave after your graduate received his diploma? At the conclusion of the ceremony there wasn't even a fourth of the parents left in the stadium. And, did you have to hold little conventions and reunions, making so much noise so that the names of the graduates could not be heard?

The teenagers of Campbell are rightfully ashamed of the conduct exhibited by their parents.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Questions and Answers

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE
SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATION

By Gladstone A. Boquist
Field Representative

Q.-I am planning to apply for social security retirement benefits. I was told that I can earn $1200 a year and still get all my payments. My brother-in-law insists that I would have to limit my earnings to $100 a month. Is he right?

A.-No. If you do not earn over $1200 in a year, it does not make any difference how much you earn in any one month.

Q.-My date of birth is correct on both my birth certificate and my baptismal certificate, but both show my name as Delbert LeRoy. I have always gone by "Roy D." Will this cause any difficulty when I apply for social security?

A.-Quite often a person has changed the order of his names, shortened a given name, or used a nickname. As long as there is sufficient identifying information to show that the document pertains to you, it will be acceptable as proof of your age.

Q.-I got a statement of my social security record and understand that I am "fully insured". Does this mean that I'll collect the maximum payment when I retire?

A.-No. Your retirement check will be based on your average earnings, not just the length of time you have worked.

Policy makers of the State and Defense Departments have apparently concluded that the cold war can be won without furhter scientific research to develop new and more sophisticated weapons systems. Some think this conclusion is to set the stage for disarmament on a gradually accelerated basis. Others believe Russia will follow our lead, develop no new weapons and leave our present forces in a decisive and superior position. But both justifications for starving research and development are based upon the mistaken beliefs that the communists are not searching for a scientific breakthrough and would not exploit a decisive weapon if they found one. This is dangerous thinking and fraught with serious risk.

Though national survival is the chief concern of every person who disagrees with present policy to curtail research and development, it also causes local problems. For example, the current state of our local defense and electronic industries is directly and primarily caused by Pentagon and State Department decision making.

The Peninsula area is heavily oriented toward scientific research and development (R & D). The Lockheed Missiles and Space Company has attracted thousands of talented scientific researchers. Stanford University and its linear accelerator now under construction, industries like Hewlett-Packard, Varian & Associates, Philco, Sylvania, Westinghouse, and many others, are heavily geared toward military research activity. In addition hundreds of smaller businesses and electronic firms have sprung up as subcontractors.

With R & D work completed on the third generation POLARIS missile (A3) and actual construction of the missile underway, large layoffs of skilled engineers have resulted. The B3 POLARIS missile which will be much better than the A3 is stymied in a long and involved "program definition" conceived by Secretary McNamara. Researchers could well be working on this program and at the same time serving the national interest.

Others who are unemployed could be absorbed if Secretary McNamara would release funds for the military communications satellite system which Philco won in fair competition. Other highly secret and necessary satellite systems could go forward with a word from the Pentagon.

Not a single new major weapons system has been given research and development priority under Secretary McNamara. Yet several like SKYBOLT, DYNA-SOAR, and the RS-70 have been cancelled or drastically curtailed. About a year ago research and development funds levelled off for what amounted to a curtailment when inflation factors are considered. At present R & D funds are actually being reduced. This has caused a chain reaction and produced a "Pocket of Poverty" in the Peninsula aerospace community.

Savings firm to build soon in Saratoga

Work is expected to get under way June 29 on Columbus Savings & Loan Association's first Santa Clara County branch office in Saratoga.

Plans for the project, including elevation and exterior design work, have been completed by Finnegan & Associates, a Santa Clara project design company.

The project includes extensive remodeling of the old Saratoga Post Office building at Saratoga Avenue and Big Basin Way, which the savings and loan institution will utilize as a modern branch facility. The facility will have 2,000 sq. ft. of space.

Cost of the remodeling job has been estimated at $35,000, according to a Columbus spokesman.

United Fund sets $1,897,532 countywide goal for 1964 drive

Trustees of the Santa Clara County United Fund have established a 1964 campaign goal of $1,897,532. United Fund volunteers in Campbell and other communities throughout Santa Clara County will be seeking a 5% increase over the 1963 goal when they make their public appeal this fall, according to Campaign Chairman Oscar S. Sorenson.

M.A. Hopkins, president of the Santa Clara United Fund reports seven new agencies have joined United Fund this year. In addition, the south county communities of Gilroy, Morgan Hill, San Martin and Coyote have affiliated with United Fund and will be receiving UF services for the first time this year. While these two factors were taken into consideration, the major cause for the goal increase is this county's spiraling population and the increased demands for services that result.

Allocations and admissions committees at the five local chapters, together with a county-wide committee which establishes national agency goals, suggested the increased goal which trustees approved.

Hopkins credited these volunteer workers for their "careful analysis of total community needs and realistic conclusions regarding budgetary requirements."

Elmer D. Sutherland, president of the Sunnyvale Chapter United Fund, has served as chairman for a "Fair Share" formula committee. His committee proposes that a gauge for giving approximates an hour's pay per month. Sutherland stated if all county residents were to follow this suggested rule of thumb, the 65 United Fund agencies would be able to keep pace with community requirements.

Since 1959, when the United Fund was started in Santa Clara County, each year's goal has been raised slightly over the previous year's figure. Without exception, determined volunteer effort, coupled with laudable public support, has made it possible for the United Fund to achieve its goal. Last year volunteers were successful in exceeding the county goal by raising $1,830,477.

The payroll deduction program available at many industries, continues to play a major role in the success of the United Fund.

Setback gets delayed okay

In a sort of locking-the-barn-door-after-the-horse-was-stolen fashion, the Planning Commission in a special public hearing Monday night granted a variance to Mrs. Concetta R. Regas, who is constructing an office building at 100 W. Rincon.

The variance eliminates the required six-foot sideyard setback on the westerly side of the building adjacent to R-1 zoning, a requirement in a C-1 zoned area.

What complicated the situation was that construction of the building has been under way for some time. The new building is right smack on the property line. Through oversights of city officials the plans were approved by various departments. All missed the setback requirement.

The planners on Monday either had to grant the variance or force the building to be torn down. They chose the variance despite the vehement protests of Mrs. Eugenia Talagni, who resides next door to the new office structure.

Mrs. Tapagni claimed that excavation in the early stages of construction had ruined her flower garden. Mrs. Tapagni indicated she has long had a deep feeling about flowers and they are her main interest in life.

If the building had the proper setback, her flowers would not have been hurt, she argued. Mrs. Tapagni was represented at the hearing by Elliott Wax, San Jose attorney.

The Planners in granting the variance pointed out that the R-1 area might soon be zoned commercial which would also eliminate any setback requirement.

Experts submit possible sites for junior college

Three campus-site areas, one each in the northern, central, and southern portions of West Valley Joint Junior College district, plus four alternate areas, were recommended to the trustees recently by the district's architects, in conjunction with the WVJC Citizens Advisory Committee.

John Lyon Reid of Reid and Tarics, San Francisco, who made the presentation to the the board, and Chester Root of Higgins and Root, Los Gatos, recommended these general site-areas after a six-month study:

Northern, Area H. Bayshore, generally centered around Agnew; 125 acres estimated at approximately $11,000 per acre, for a total of $1,375,000. Terrain; flat orchard land. Development costs, expected to be relatively low. Present and foreseen accessibility to traffic: very good (via Bayshore, San Tomas, Montague, Lawrence, Nimitz, and Central freeways and expressways). Soil studies of these bay lands, however, would be particularly important.

CENTRAL

---Central, Area B. Fruitvale Ave. in Saratoga, in the vicinity of the Odd Fellows Home; 126 acres, estimated at $13,500 per acre; total $1,687,500. Terrain: undulating hills, with no abnormal problems of grading and drainage. "An excellent site... nearly 100 per cent usage possible... most of the trees can be saved... well-located to the District's center of attendance." Accessibility, difficult because of streets designed for semi-rural driving and country living.

SOUTH

South, Area F-1, Novitiate vineyard property, along Coleman Road in San Jose, immediately north of the IBM Research Laboratory adjacent to Guadalupe Creek; 120 acres at approximately $13,500 per acre; total, $1,620,000. Terrain: undulating hills along the foothills of the Santa Cruz Mountains. The area was among those considered by the University of California for the campus being built at Santa Cruz. "An exceptionally fine site." Present and foreseen access to traffic: very good (via West Valley freeway to Camden and Hicks: San Tomas expressway to Hicks).

ALTERNATE

A nearby area along Coleman Road and Redmond Road, Area F-2 (Athenour property), was recommended as an alternate. It was considered somewhat less desireable than the vineyard area (F-1), however, because of a power-transmission mainline running through it, Reid said. The Athenour property contains 125 acres, estimated at $13,000 per acre, for a total of $1,625,000. "A fine, level site." Access would be the same as that for the vineyard area.

OTHERS

Other areas recommended for consideration as alternates include Area D, Cox Ave. in Saratoga; Area E, Lester property along Pruneridge Ave., in Santa Clara; and a 102-acre Campbell orchard, Area M, between Hamilton Ave. and Campbell Ave. and immediately west of the future San Tomas expressway.

is charged but is generally waived in the case of "deserving" clubs whereas the merchant is forced to pay the difference between his business license and the $100.

But when Councilman Bob McElroy moved that all license fees be waived this year, there was no second after City Attorney Joe Bonacina said this was playing with fire.

Only two of the applicants, San Tomas Boy Scouts and Alec Shopping Center were denied permits. The Boy Scouts had applied for two and only one per customer is allowed. The shopping center was ruled out because it still does not exist.

Before the council acted on the applications, they had been processed by the state fire marshal's office and the city fire department. Only three stores are on the list of approvals.

Those granted permits and the location of their stands were: Campbell Lions (1603 S. Bascom); Campbell Rainbow Girls (1175 Camden): Campbell Optimists (Hamilton and S. Bascom); Campbell Kiwanis (Winchester and Latimer); St. Lucy's Holy Name (Budd and Winchester); I. O. O. F. Lodge (49 W. Hamilton); San Tomas Boy Scouts (Campbell and San Tomas); West Valley Kiwanis (Campbell and San Tomas); Cresci Sea Food (331 Bascom); Drug King (1658 S. Bascom); Sunshine Card & Toy (1735 Winchester).

Rev. Liechty

The Campbell Press inadvertently reported that Rev. Billie Pate officiated at the funeral for Randy Knight. Rev. Harry M. Liechty, Jr., Pastor of the First Baptist Church, 400 Llewellyn Ave., was Randy's pastor and officiated at the funeral services.

Zoning issue

an opportunity to study the best possible zoning.

According to Joe Anello, co-publisher of The Press and a property owner in the section who will preside at the meeting, the objective is to get the property owners reaction. One outcome could be the development of a "package deal" for the whole area in which owners of small and large parcels might offer their property as a unit. But first the right zone must be found.

Final budget

Campbell councilmen are bearing down on the city's budget this week in a series of study sessions as they point to the final adoption date next Monday, June 29.

The routine hearing on the budget Monday was adjourned to next Monday and the council hopes to have completed going through the huge fiscal document in study sessions prior to that time.

The budget, according to city ordinance, must be adopted by July 1.

Phone company asks rehearing on rate issue

Pacific Telephone has petitioned the California Public Utilities Commission for a rehearing on the Commission's order to reduce telephone rates $40,722,000 a year and refund some $80 million to customers.

"The total effect of the rate order--is unjust and unreasonable and deprives the company of its property without due process of law," the petition charged.

The company said that if the petition is denied, Pacific Telephone intends to appeal to the courts. And the company asked that the commission stay the operative effect of the order "for the full and orderly opportunity of a full and fair review" in court in the event of a denial.

The 58 page petition said the commission's order to cut Pacific Telephone's rate of return from 6.75 per cent to 6.3 per cent is "confiscatory" and "based upon unsupported hypothetical calculations at war with reality."

It said the return to Pacific Telephone shareowners allowed by the order "is not commensurate with the returns on investments in other enterprises having corresponding risks, and is not sufficient to assure confidence in the Financial integrity of the enterprise, so as to maintain its credit and to attract capital."

"The Order," said the petition, "is therefore repugnant to the due process clause of the 14th amendment of the Constitution of the United States."

Local couple aid young Greek boy

Five year old Artemios Triantafyllow, who lives in northeastern Greece, will be assured clothing, supplies and special medical care, thanks to the contributions of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Dick of 12560 Quito Road.

The Dicks have financially "adopted" Artemios, through Foster Parents Plan, and will contribute to his support for at least a year.

The boy lives with his parents in abject poverty. The father has developed cancer and is unable to work. The family's only income is derived from the mother's earnings as a tobacco worker during the season. She then earns $8.33 a month, a sum that cannot possibly cover the basic necessities. They know too well what it means to fear hunger, cold and illness.

Under the Foster Parents Plan, Artemios will receive aid, and his family will receive counsel and encouragement. Letters will be exchanged between the American family and Artemios. An "adoption" is financial, not legal, but the relationship is warm and personal.

Any individuals or groups, who want to help a small child, somewhere, can do so by writing to Foster Parents Plan, 352 Park Avenue South, New York City, 10010.

State board approves auto smog devices

California has taken dead aim at smog-forming exhaust gases with the approval of four devices to control that source of air pollution.

The four certified by the State Motor Vehicle Pollution Control Board were from American Machine & Foundry-Chromalloy Corp., Arvin Industries-Universal Oil Products Co., W. R. Grace & Co.-Norris Thermador Corp., and Walker Manufacturing Co.-American Cyanamid Co.

The Board action climaxes a year of rigorous testing and the sifting of 38 original applications for exhaust controls. Three are still pending. They will come before the MVPCB for consideration at a later date.

As explained by Dr. J.B. Askew of San Diego, MVPCB chairman, today's approval means that the next new model vehicles sold in California one year from now will have to be equipped with one of the devices.

The exhaust controls, coupled with crankcase systems, will reduce unburned vehicular gas fumes by 80% and carbon monoxide by 60%. It is estimated by MVPCB engineers that once all vehicles in Los Angeles are equipped with both devices smog-forming hydrocarbon will be reduced by nearly two-thirds.

CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN SCORES SUCCESS--Hundreds of Campbell residents took advantage of free dumping privileges at Rincon Park during the five-day clean-up campaign last week spearheaded by the fire department, as the pile of salvageable material above will testify. At the city council meeting Monday, Peter Lico, former councilman and mayor, criticized the clean-up drive. He claimed that the Los Gatos Scavenger Co. should have conducted a house-to-house pick-up service to accomodate the people unable to take their trash to the dump on their own. Councilmen said that they would look into the operation before the next clean-up time arrives. Lico also asked when the tree planting program was to start for the creek behind the medical building on Campbell Ave. He also said that he felt the condemnation program started in the Railway-Dillon-Gilman area should not be stopped. He was assured that this was not being done. The council also indicated that the tree-planting program would be looked into.

Junior college announces fall grid schedule

With West Valley Junior College's administrative offices acquiring somewhat of a fieldhouse atmosphere as shipments of athletic and other equipment arrive, Pres. Wallace W. Hall has announced the following football schedule for fall:

Home games--- Hartnell College, Oct. 3; San Francisco State frosh, Nov. 6.

Away--- Vallejo, Sept. 26; Menlo, Oct. 9; Hancock, Nov. 14: and Gavilan, Nov. 21.

Scrimmages --- To be arranged with local teams, for Oct. 17, 24, and 31.

The game at Menlo College will begin at 2 p.m. All others will be evening events, starting at 8 o'clock.

"West Valley College's timetable for beginning operation precluded the advance arrangements usually made in athletics," President Hall said, "but Coast Conference schools have been very cooperative in rearranging their football schedules to accommodate our new JC."

WVJC's newly-appointed faculty and athletics staff will begin duties in September, with Robert (Bob) Jones, head football coach, and Henry (Hank) Paul, athletics director, launching football practice Sept. 1. Bob Jones comes to WVJC from San Jose State: Hank Paul, from Palo Verde College, at Blythe.

ELECTRONIC ASSEMBLY-- Four pretty co-ed essay contest winners visited Goodwill Industries in San Jose recently to receive $300 in cash prizes from the Santa Clara County Committee to Employ the Handicapped. Visiting with electronic assembler Bill Duncan are (left to right) Deborah Pearl, Diane Mangus, Ellen Girdler, and Carol Abate. The girls wrote on "How Handicapped People in My Community Are Proving That Ability Counts."

All the girls are 16. Miss Girdler, Los Gatos High, won first place of $150. The other three are from Del Mar High.

COMPLETES TEST --Marine Pvt. Harold D. Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey H. Green, of 35 La Vonne Drive, Campbell, recently completed a week of testing and screening at Naval Air Technical Training Center, Memphis, Tenn. He received a battery of aptitude tests and was interviewed to determine his eligibility for technical training for duties in the aviation field of the Marine Corps.

Two seniors get special class award

John Ritter and Carol Baldwin were named the Outstanding Seniors of the class of 1964 of Campbell High School at graduation ceremonies held June 19.

Ritter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Ritter Sr., of 119 E. Alice Ave. He was Student Body president for the fall term and was chosen State Debate Champion in a recent tournament at Santa Barbara. He is a lifetime member of California Scholarship Federation and president of Ace Hi Y. He plans to attend Northwestern University in Evanston, Illinois.

Carol Baldwin, daughter of Mrs. Cathryn Baldwin of 69 Christopher Ave., received two scholarships as the result of her excellent grades. She was editor of the high school year book and a member of the honor society. She plans to attend San Jose State College in the fall.

Campbell grad wins fellowship

Lois L. Siegal, 1958 graduate and honor student at Campbell High School has been awarded a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship for graduate study by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, according to Principal Robert Culp of the high school.

The former Campbell student was one of 1500 granted fellowships in the 1964 competition from among 11,000 college seniors nominated by their professors.

Lois is the daughter of Dr. Benjamin Siegal, clinical psychologist, who was on the staff of Agnew State Hospital when Lois was a student at Campbell High. He left Agnew in 1959 to go to Porterville State Hospital.

Tentative JC budget gets board approval

Trustees of West Valley Junior College have adopted a 1964-65 tentative budget of $4,277,821, for submission to the county superintendent of schools. They first trimmed out some $84,800 from the preliminary budget received last week.

Main cuts in the preliminary budget were $68,950 in extended-day instruction and $10,000 in physical education, in accordance with revised estimates of needs for the year. The trustees will continue work on the budget before final adoption.

During discussion of the budget, which contains approximately $300,000 in new district funds for 1964-65 for down-payment on one or more campus sites, trustees heard a request from Frank Stearns of Saratoga that permanent campus facilities be financed by bonds even though it will ultimately cost the taxpayer more if some pay-as-you-go approach is not used.

Approximately $420,000 for land acquisition was in the 1963-64 budget and is being added to the new funds for capital outlay next year. Including funds expected to be available from the state
